Tour Edsel Ford Home

The Ford home—began in 1926— is faced with leaded glass windows studded occasionally with heraldic stained glass inserts. The style of the homes in Worcestershire, England, was chosen by the Fords because of their long interest in and affection for, that type of architecture. This Michigan historical site is situated on 87 acres facing Lake St. Clair. The house has original furnishings including many old and rare pieces from all over the world.

Jens Jensen, one of America's foremost landscape designers and conservationists, designed the Ford House garden landscape. His approach to landscape architecture sought to engage all five human senses - the sight of many colors and shapes, the sound of water running, the smell of flowers in bloom, the taste of berries, and the feeling of being surrounded by nature.
